Talk of Possible Law Violations By FCC Grows

House Subcommittee Is Checking Deeper Into Bitter TV Fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—House probers, amid increasing talk of law violations, take another look today at the complex financial transactions involving Communications Commissioner Richard A. Mack.

Chairman Harris (D-Ark) of the special House subcommittee conducting the probe said Mack and others involved in the bitter fight over Miami's channel 10 TV license appear to have violated the law and opened themselves to prosecution.

Miami Atty. Thurman A. Whiteside, against whom some of Harris' statements were directed, denied that he had violated any law.

Meanwhile, Atty. Gen. Rogers, at a news conference, described as "not correct" a report that the Justice Department has taken steps looking toward Mack's possible removal.

"That is not our function," he said. "Prosecutions are a matter for the department to decide. Removals are matters for the President to decide."

Declines to Speculate

Rogers said an FBI investigation of the case is not yet completed, and he declined to speculate on any possible moves toward prosecution.

Rogers ordered the FBI probe last week after the subcommittee's ousted counsel Bernard Schwartz testified Mack had accepted money from Whiteside and pledged his vote to Public Service Television, Inc., a National Airlines subsidiary which got the contested Miami TV license. Schwartz said Whiteside represented Public Service.

Whiteside, who has heatedly denied the Schwartz charges, elaborated Tuesday on the one-sixth interest he said he gave Mack in Miami's Stembler-Sheldon insurance agency, a firm doing business with the Channel 10 winner.

Tells of Mack's Profits

Whiteside testified earlier Mack had received almost $10,000 from the insurance interest from 1953 through 1956 without a cent of cost to Mack. Asked if the transfer were made to Mack "just out of friendship," Whiteside replied: "Of that you may rest assured."

He added that Mack supplied leads to the insurance firm, entitling him to a share in profits. However, Whiteside said Mack hadn't provided any leads since being named to the FCC by President Eisenhower in 1955.

In 1957, Whiteside said, Mack received nothing from the insurance company but his ownership participation interest was paid to Andar, Inc., which had been an inactive corporation. Whiteside said he had transferred to Mack the outstanding stock of Andar, Inc., which he said had no value.

Discussing possible violations, Harris said Mack's interest in the insurance firm "is a violation of the (communications) act" of 1954. And the chairman noted emphatically that the penalty for violating the act is $10,000 fine or a year in prison.

The spelling bee activities are being promoted by Betty Ward.

Says He's Man of Courage, Honesty

Ike Heaps Praise Upon Sec. Benson

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, defying Midwestern Republican demands that he fire Secretary of Agriculture Benson, praised the Cabinet officer today as a man of courage and honesty.

The President told a news conference that people advocating Benson's ouster are badly mistaken in taking that position.

Eisenhower left no doubt he intends to ignore demands for Benson's resignation.

Some Midwestern Republicans in Congress, sharply critical of Benson's farm policies, have contended that continuing him in office would cost the party 25 to 30 congressional seats in the November elections.

This was Eisenhower's first news conference in three weeks—and his third since last Oct. 30. He dealt also with these other matters:

RECESSION — Eisenhower repeated that a tax cut is of course a possibility if there is any deepening of the depression. He used that word, also the word recession.

But Eisenhower again expressed confidence that unemployment will begin to diminish. He added that if it does so next month, that would mark the beginning of the end of the recession.

DISABILITY—Eisenhower said he and Vice President Nixon have a very clear understanding as to what Nixon's role should be if Eisenhower should become disabled.

Eisenhower declined to go into detail, saying if he did newsmen would want the most minute information regarding the understanding.

The matter came up in a request for Eisenhower's comment on lack of action by Congress so far on legislation to spell out what to do in the case of presidential disability.

Eisenhower repeated that he thinks there should be a constitutional amendment. The House Democratic leadership thinks the matter can be handled by simple legislation.

So far as his own case is concerned, Eisenhower said, there is such a clear understanding between Nixon and himself, and with certain others, that it is inconceivable there would be any misunderstanding regarding Nixon's role.

Eisenhower spoke of the rela-

House Adding $250 Million To Soil Bank

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House takes final action today on a last-minute decision to add 250 million dollars to the farm soil bank program "to keep faith with the farmers."

The extra money was added Tuesday to a general appropriation bill which comes up for passage. The change would increase from 500 to 750 million dollars the amount farmers may be paid this year for retiring surplus cropland.

Appoval of the soil bank funds came on a standing 120-57 vote after the program was denounced as unsound, outlandish and a joke.

Rep. Whitten (D-Miss) said in the long run the program "is going to do more damage than good." But he urged approval of the funds to keep faith with farmers who signed up to participate in the soil bank but who were excluded when the 500 million dollars originally earmarked for 1958 was exhausted.

The House also added an amendment to limit payments under the extra allotment to $3,000 for any individual or corporate farm participant, regardless of the numbe of farms affected.

The original law also has a $3,000 limitation but it has been interpreted to apply to each farm.

Jobless Claims Leaping Upward

200,950 Ohioans Receiving Benefits

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The number of Ohioans collecting jobless benefits climbed past the 200,000 mark in the week ended last Saturday, the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation (BUC) reported today.

The new high-water mark of compensation claims is 200,950. There has been an increase in continuing claims of roughly 10,000 a week for the last four weeks. Average for the week ended Feb. 15 was 190,344.

The average number of continuing claims per week in February has been 185,865, a new record since the BUC was founded in 1939. Previous high average for February was 152,712 in January 1950.

The BUC estimates that about 7 per cent of Ohioans subject to the unemployment compensation law are now drawing jobless benefits—slightly below the national rate.

Industries hardest hit, the BUC reports, are in the durable goods manufacturing field. Nearly half—43 per cent—of Ohio's benefit recipients are in steel, machine-tools, automobiles, aircraft and parts. Manufacturing industries as a group accounted for seven of every 10 benefit recipients. Four out of every five claimants are men.

At present, three of every five claimants are concentrated in Ohio's big city areas—120,000 in metropolitan areas and only 80,000 in all other areas of the state.

Cleveland has nearly 42,000 claimants, Cincinnati more than 22,000; Canton, Toledo and Youngstown all stand close to the 11,000 mark, and Columbus, Dayton and Akron around 8,000 each. But, the BUC adds:

"Surprisingly, perhaps, the rate of covered unemployment in these big cities as a group is below that of Ohio's smaller cities as a group. Among the smaller Ohio cities with comparatively high rates are Bridgeport, Hamilton-Middletown, Lorain-Elyria, Portsmouth, Sandusky, Steubenville, Warren and Zanesville."

The bloodmobile visit will be the fourth since Lisbon joined with Salem Columbiana and East Palestine in the blood bank program at Salem City Hospital and the Salem Central Clinic.

Patients needing blood receive it free. In return ,each community is supposed to provide 125 pints of blood for the blood bank every six months. Lisbon has attained its quota only once.

Pineau Blasts America's Policy In Middle East

Seen as Sign France Won't Be Pushed Into Compromise by U.S.

PARIS (AP)—A sweeping attack by French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau on America's policy in the Arab world was seen today as additional evidence that France will not be pushed into any U.S.-engineered compromise with Tunisia.

Pineau's blast Tuesday night was one more indication of the difficulties facing U.S. diplomat Robert Murphy and a British colleague named by their governments to exert "good offices" to bring France and her former North African protectorate back together.

Must Consider Rebellion

Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba said in Tunis after his first conference with Murphy that any French-Tunisian settlement must take the Algerian rebellion into account. The French already have said flatly the only Algerian angle they will discuss is how to cut off Tunisian aid to the rebels.

The French Parliament's upper house, after hearing Pineau's attack on U.S. actions, voted 271-14 for a resolution that "resumption of normal relations with Tunisia should have nothing to do with the Algerian sedition."

Pineau's attack was the sharpest blast at the U.S. government from a top French official in a long time.

No Immediate Protest

There was no immediate protest from U.S. Ambassador Amory Houghton against Pineau's speech. There was no immediate reaction in Paris to an official statement in Washington that some American military aid equipment was used in the French air raid Feb. 8 on the Tunisian village of Sakiet Sidi Youssef, which triggered the current crisis.

Douglas Dillon, deputy undersecretary of state and former ambassador to France, said there "was certainly no excuse" for such use. He said the United States intends to "take every precaution" to make sure it does not happen again.

Firemen answered two calls on Tuesday.

At 6:57 p.m. they were summoned to the Donald Rinard residence at 544 Columbia St. where a defective chimney caused a small blaze in a partition. Damage was covered by insurance.

At 10:44 p.m., they extinguished a fire in a car parked at 1474 S. Lincoln Ave. and owned by Thomas Burns of 1327 Carol Drive. A defective wire caused the blaze firemen said.

No estimates on damages were given.

Senate Continues Debate On Issue

Close Vote Expected On Postal Rate Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both sides predicted a close vote today as the Senate continued its debate over whether the out-of-town letter stamp should be raised to 4 or 5 cents.

Final Senate action on an overhaul of postal rates is not expected until later in the week, in any case, since efforts are to be made to tie to it pay raises for the 500,000 postal workers. Both sides have agreed that rate questions will be settled first.

Sen. Carlson (R-Kan), leading the fight for the temporary 5-cent stamp on out-of-town letters, told a reporter he believed the outcome would be very close.

Predict Slight Margin

Democratic sources said the decision might come by a margin of as little as two votes although Sen. Monroney (D-Okla) said he believed the flat 4-cent rate would win.

Before the Senate is a bill written by its Post Office Committee to increase all classes of rates by 747 million dollars a year. This compares with new revenue of 527 million provided in the measure passed last year by the House. That bill provided a 4-cent rate for all letters.

The Senate committee, at President Eisenhower's urging, voted to require a 5-cent stamp on non-local letters for a three-year period. This would yield an additional 75 millions, earmarked for modernization of postal facilities.

Supports 4-Cent Stamp

Chairman Olin Johnston (DSC) of the Senate committee urged the Senate to reject the 5-cent stamp but accept a permanent 4-cent letter rate.

He argued that even with a 4-cent tamp, first class mail would much more than pay its way.

However, Sen. Neuberger (D-Ore), quoting Post Office Department figures, said a 5-cent stamp would cost the average American family not more than 20 cents a month more.

He contended the average family now is paying more than 60 cents a month in taxes to meet its share of the 700-million-dollar postal deficit.

Neuberger said this deficit soon would mount to a billion dollars a year if Congress votes higher postal pay but does nothing about rates. Neuberger said he favors higher postal pay.

Citizens Group Formed to Build Public Backing

Immediate Objective To Win Congressional Passage of Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Citizens for Foreign Aid movement took root today, launched with an impassioned plea by President Eisenhower to combat opponents who say "billions for armament, but not one cent for peace!"

Movie czar Eric Johnston undertook the task of setting up a permanent nongovernmental committee. The group, with headquarters in Washington, will seek to build public support for military and economic aid programs abroad.

Its immediate objective is to win congressional passage of the administration's $3,900,000,000 foreign aid bill.

Outgrowth of Conference

The movement is a direct outgrowth of a conference Tuesday, arranged by Johnston at Eisenhower's behest, of leading citizens.

Eisenhower addressed a dinner attended by 2,000 persons Tuesday night, climaxing a daylong parade of leaders from politics, industry, labor, entertainment, education and just about every other walk of life.

An unusual spirit of bipartisanship marked the gathering, at which Eisenhower and former President Truman both spoke, eight hours apart.

Poses With Democrats

The unprecedented political truce was emphasized when Eisenhower posed chummily for pictures with such Democratic lumiaries as Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson and House Speaker Sam Rayburn, both of Texas, as well as Adlai E. Stevenson, Eisenhower's Democratic opponent in 1952 and 1956.

Eisenhower, obviously moved, asked indulgence to say a few words "from my heart" in advance of his formal half-hour speech.

"I hope that from this meeting will flow a great wave of knowledge and education so that the American people will understand how necessary foreign aid is to the cause of peace," he said.

Says 'Aid Program Urgent'

In his formal address, he said: "It is my conviction that, urgent as the outlay for our own missiles and other modern weapons may be, a strong program of military

Lagging Sales Worrying Car Makers

Auto Inventories Continue to Mount

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT (AP)—The auto industry's assembly lines are running far behind the midwinter pace of 1957.

Most recent tabulations show U. S. factories have built 794,564 passenger cars and 137,207 trucks so far in 1958. In the comparable period last year 1,102,130 cars and 168,930 trucks were produced.

But inventories continue to mount. The stockpile could top 830,000 units by March 1.

At the current rate of sales that would amount to approximately a 60-day supply for the car retailers. A normal supply always has been considered to be around 35 days.

The figures point up the fact the going has become extremely uncertain for the auto makers and retailers. Producer and retailer are watching for signs of an upturn in retail demand.

A modest increase in retail deliveries is not likely to bring a major advance in assembly line output. Sales would have to show promise of sharply reducing inventories before the manufacturers would increase output.

An 850,000-unit inventory comes close to being unwieldy in a lagging market. Neither manufacturer nor retailer can handle such an inventory during the July-September quarter without a lot of price slashing. Many analysts say the industry's present problems result chiefly from high inventories and price slashing in 1956.

Some industry sources hold the view that fear of a possible widespread work stoppage in the car factories contributes heavily to the reluctance to buy new automobiles right now.

Most auto industry economists continue to say there has been no shrinkage in buying power.

"Come on, Doc, let's get out of here."

Bronx Youth Indicted For Murdering Girl, 7

NEW YORK (AP) — A Bronx County grand jury Tuesday indicted Francis Michael Medaille, 15, on a first-degree murder charge for throwing a 7-year-old girl 12 floors to her death.

The girl, Kathleen Begman n, plunged Feb. 11 from the roof of a Bronx apartment building where she and Medaille lived.

The Bronx boy, now in Bellevue Hospital undergoing mental examination, turned himself in to police that day and admitted pushing Kathleen off the roof. He said he lured her there with a promise of 10 cents and a lollipop. He said he didn't know why he pushed her to death.

The magistrate who sent the boy to the hospital the day after the slaying said: "If it is determined that the boy . . . knew the nature of the crime, he will burn in the electric chair."

Engineers to Be Hired to Study Route For New Superhighway

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Department of Highways is about to hire two consulting engineers to recommend a route for a new four-lane superhighway between Canton-Massillon and Marietta.

Three sections of the new road may be placed under construction next year, depending upon what route the consultants recommend.

The road will be a new U.S. 21. Last fall the federal government placed 431 miles of the route—from Canton-Massillon to Charlotte, N. C.—on the federal interstate system. That made work eligible for 90 per cent federal financial aid. The Ohio section is about 115 miles long and will cost about one million dollars a mile.

Pearl E. Masheter, deputy highway director in charge of design and construction, said the department already had planned three rojects on U.S. 21, around New Philadelphia, Cambridge and Marietta.

"If they tie in with the overall route recommended by tre consulting engineers," he said, "we should start building them next year."

Whether the entire road from Marietta to Canton-Massillon can be built at one time is uncertain, said Masheter.

Ross E. Shultz, enginer in charge of the Location and Design Bureau, said the route will be studied in two sections—from the Marietta area to U.S. 40 near Cambridge and from there to the Canton-Massillon area.

Two firms of consulting engineers have been advised of what the studies should include. They are Howard, Needles, Tammen & Bergendoff for the northern section and the J. E. Greiner Co. for the southern section.

Number of U.S. Farms Down 2.3% Last Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio had 178,00 farms in 1957 compared with 183,000 in 1956, the Agriculture Department reported today.

The department reports that the number of farms in the United States declined 2.3 per cent last year and 17 per cent below that of 10 years earlier. Last year's total in the nation came to 4,855,800 compared with 4,968,800 in 1956, and iwth 5,870,950 in 1947. The largest number of farms operated in the nation since the department started keeping records was 6,813,700 in 1935.

Increased use of labor-saving machinery is influencing a trend toward larger and fewer farms, with many small farms being sold and joined onto adjacent units, the department's survey said.

CHART DETAILS FOOD PRICE JUMP — Ewan Clague, Labor Statistics Commissioner, points to a food price chart as he reports record high food prices pushed the nation's cost of living to a new peak in January. Clague said he could hold no hope for any drop in living costs in the next few months. The Labor Department index of consumer prices rose six-tenths of one percent between December and January—the largest monthly rise since July, 1956. Food prices increased 1.8 per cent between December and January.

Harry Truman Goes Into Orbit

What does Harry Truman have that other Democrats don't have?

Why is he still able to steal the show from Adlai Stevenson in 1958, the same way he stole it in 1952 and 1956 when Stevenson ran for the presidency?

Who is this aging former president who apparently can run on forever, while the men who aspire to follow in his footsteps run down as fast as they can be wound up?

When Harry Truman tells Democrats "what they want to hear," which is his trade last as a party spokesman, what makes them listen? He isn't running for office. No one needs to pay him any heed.

But everybody does pay heed, including Republicans, who rate the former president as their chief gadfly.

It is no trick to prove he is talking through his hat, that he has a flexible "forgettery" where his own presidency is concerned, that his years in the White House were signalized by appointees who went to prison for pilfering money that did not belong to them.

There is no secret about the fact that in 1952 he had become such a sitting duck in politics he could have been peppered full of holes had he been renominated. Yet by stepping aside and, what is stranger yet, by backing Averell Harriman's unsuccessful effort to beat Adlai Stevenson in the 1956 Democratic convention, Harry Truman has become Mr. Democrat in person.

Only one thing can account for it—vigor.

Mr. Truman knows only one way to wage a political battle. He raises blood pressure. He "gives 'em hell." He preaches the brimstone fire gospel of partisanship. He swings from the floor. He bites in the clinches and puts a thumb in his adversary's eye.

Whatever else he is proving, he is demonstrating that Andy Jackson and Teddy Roosevelt made a great discovery about the basic psychology of American voters when they made vigor a capital asset in partisan politics.

Mr. Truman is the best thing that could happen to the Republican party at this time. He is reminding Republicans that vigor is their own most precious potential asset.

There is only one Republican that Mr. Truman and his kind of Democrat are afraid of —the one man who teed off on them after their own fashion in the last two presidential campaigns. They have fits whenever Vice President Nixon is mentioned. They charge he hits them below the belt; i.e., where they can't take it. That is the highest partisan tribute they know how to pay an adversary.

It is still too soon to be drawing battle lines for 1960, but it is plain the Democrats are drawing battle lines for 1958. If it's vigor they're counting on, they should not be disappointed.

Having put Harry Truman into orbit as the No. 1 boy they will not be able to complain if he gets shot down. Vice President Nxon is just the sharpshooter who can do it.

Foreign Aid Issue Is Arithmetic

This is not an auspicious time for the Eisenhower administration to ask for a substantial increase in foreign-aid appropriations.

All the pent-up resentment of U.S. taxpayers against the waste and misuse of their funds and the ingratitude of beneficiaries will be released this year. If it turns out that the federal government cannot balance its books, there will be a special incentive to shrink the deficit by shrinking foreign-aid appropriations.

Even the new argument that the Soviet Union has been so impressed with the U.S. foreign-aid program that it is beginning to do the same thing on a competitive basis will not cut much ice in Congress. Representatives and senators will feel they are under obligation to prove they have retained control over the foreign-aid policy by refusing to give the Eisenhower administration what it wants.

This is the politics of the issue in 1958. Foreign aid is not in shining repute among U.S. taxpayers. There is a strong popular opinion for rapping knuckles and proving to foreign-aid beneficiaries that "Uncle Sugar" is not as sappy as he makes himself seem to be when he throws his money around.

But when all this has been said, nothing of any substance has been decided, because foreign aid is not essentially politics but arithmetic. Its severest critics do not say foreign aid should be discontinued. If it were discontinued, the policy itself would be revived piecemeal, because the use of U.S. wealth to tie actual and potential allies more closely to U.S. principles is a widely-accepted principle. It was practiced long before the federal government turned it into a systematic practice by organizing it into a program and asking Congress for lump-sum authorizations and appropriations.

The question is not whether foreign aid will be continued another year but how much aid is going to be authorized by Congress — the nearly four billion dollars requested by President Eisenhower, or two-thirds, one-half, or two-fifths of that amount.

When the politics has been cleared away, the arithmetic will remain. That has been the history of foreign aid since it was called the Marshall Plan. Congressmen invariably have done their talking about the politics of the issue. But when it was time to make a decision, they voted on aritmetic—the proposition that money spent on foreign aid, including money wasted, was a bargain in security.

Unselfish Action

In these competitive days when selfish tactics are too often employed to achieve personal security and success, it is refreshing to discover a man who values public welfare above his own desires.

Such a man, apparently, is Mayor John Todd of Lisbon.

At Mayor Todd's request, Lisbon Village Council voted Monday night to slash his salary from $4,800 annually to $2,500, with the difference to go to the village's general fund.

Mayor Todd, who is employed full time at the ABC Mining Co., could have continued to receive the $4,800 a year paid to his predecessor, because under Ohio law an elective official's salary cannot be reduced during his term of office.

The mayor chose to relinquish $2,300 of his salary because of the village's serious financial plight.

Such an unselfish action certainly won't go unnoticed by the citizens of Lisbon.

Reflection of Changing Times

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nothing shows better the changing philosophy of government than the speeches by the President and two ex-presidents, all within the space of three days and on the same subject: the present recession.

Former Presidents Hoover and Truman spoke Saturday. President Eisenhower talked Monday. Hoover, a personally kind man, looked as out of date as he did from the time the depression started during his administration in 1929.

The steps he took then to relieve unemployment and get the economy moving were limited and inadequate. He was reluctant then and still appears so. to recognize the responsibility of the government for the general welfare of the people.

Truman, whose "Fair Deal" was the successor of President Roosevelt's New Deal, pitched his whole speech on the basic ideas behind both deals: that the government must not only help people in distress but is responsible for the general welfare.

President Eisenhower, a true reflection of changing times and the changes in the Republican leadership, in his talk plainly recognized government responsibility. His admnstraton has not only accepted much of the New and Fair Deal programs but expanded them.

In the depths of the depression Hoover was optimistic it would just go away. He appears now to think the recession of today will do the same. Then and now his solution seemed to be individualism and self-reliance, not government help.

On Saturday—in a speech which he revealed was almost identical with one he made in 1931 — he said: "The way to the nation's greatness is the path of self-reliance, independence, and steadfastness in time of trial and stress."

He didn't acknowledge Saturday, despite all that has been done by the Roosevelt-Truman-Eisenhower regimes, that the government has a colossal responsibility not only for the general welfare but for getting out of the recession.

It is doubtful he still understands what caused either the depression or the recession. He blamed the former on the aftermaths of World War I and the latter on the mistakes and destruction of World War II.

Truman's Saturday speech was studded with political cliches. It was one of his "give-'em-hell" performances. Nevertheless, there was no doubt he acknowledged government responsibility where people are concerned.

At one point he said: "The people want . . . action at the top . . . for the good of the nation and for the welfare and benefit of the ordinary citizen" And he listed a bunch of welfare programs on which he said Eisenhower had fallen down.

Eisenhower, who has repeatedly pointed with pride to the welfare programs sponsored by his administration, talked of the readiness of the government to pitch in with public works programs to relieve unemployment.

Eisenhower, who cannot be and no doubt would not want to be considered a New or Fair Dealer, nevertheless during the 1956 campaign showed he had gone far beyond Hoover's philosophy of self-reliance. He said then: "We believe the government . . . has to perform in Lincoln's phrase . . . all those things which individuals cannot do for themselves . . ."

Go Ahead - Think!

By TRUMAN TWILL

John Fischer of Harper's Magazine has done a bang-up job on intellectuals in the current issue. Even a non - intellectual can feel good about it.

Don't run away. Don't be frightened by the word "intellectual." That is what Fischer is trying to explain.

Intellectuals are no more frightening than anyone else, if you understand them. They are people who work with their minds, that's all.

Dancers work with their feet. Actors work with their voices. Football players work with their muscles.

Other people work with their minds, besides intellectuals. What makes them different from other mind-workers is that they specialize in thinking. Some intellectuals are unusually smart; some are just so-so. Not all highly-intelligent people are intellectuals, because some prefer to work at other things. But chances are that you will think if you are able. It helps to have something to think with.

Thinking is, of course, the hardest thing men try to do. That is why they frequently botch it. But it is why there is need for people who can do it and are willing to plug away at it. They are scarce. They have a rare skill.

Suddenly, the scarcity of thinkers is worrisome. People who have made an indoor sport of taunting intellectuals are simmering down. Even captains of industry now are ready to concede it is handy to have some thinking specialists around, if only to tell them what other thinkers have thought.

More than that, some captains have become intellectuals, themselves, saving the salary of a hired hand. John Fischer thinks the status of the intellectual is leaping ahead like a spry rabbit; that "instead of being treated like a parish fit for stoning, he now is getting almost reverential attention Maybe so.

Anyway, the time is in sight when a pupil who proves he can think may get almost as much credit as the athletic hero, who is twice heroic if he is as well coordinated in his mind as he is in his body.

The time is in sight when intellectuals who cannot afford to go elsewhere for nourishment may be given as much consideration at home as the winter birds, who are given a square meal on the premises. In short, the time is in sight when America may shake free of the idea that every pitch must be made to the 12-year-old mind, meaning the one that quit developing at less than the junior high school level.

To those of us who are not intellectuals but try to put in a push for trem because we need them, the Fischer article in Harper's is encouraging.

If it's such a good article why wasn't more of it quoted here? The truth is, none of it was quoted, except one short sentence.

But if it's quotes that are needed, here is Fischer's closing one: "If you're so rich, why aren' you smart?" He thinks things may be coming to impertinent questions like that if thinking continues to become respectable in the United States.

Women At Work

If any American males still are hanging onto that old one which reads "woman's place is in the home," they'd better let go.

Today, with a total U.S. labor force close to 68 million strong, women hold almost a third of the jobs — 22 million.

Indeed, the Department of Commerce forecasts that by 1975 the number may reach 33 million matching the country's total labor force in 1905.

The present total of working men is eight times that found in 1830, when women still were mostly in the home. Today's figures are even more astonishing when it is realized that of all American women aged 45 to 64, some 42 per cent are in the labor force. and this figure is rising too.

Let's stop kidding ourselves, men. The days of home - baked bread, home-laundered shirts etc. are gone forever. We'd just better be thankful we can still get an occasional home-cooked meal.

Once Over

A white rat with a college education has been discovered at Barnard College. After extensive lessons it goes through a routine requiring thought, deduction and action, at the end of which it pulls a cord and releases a a Rube Goldberg - Joe Cook touch as it goes through an elaborate mystic - maze culminating in the flag raising and a summon to dinner by buzzer. Barnebel is reported depressed, however, for the following reasons:

a. It has won no bookings on a Sunday night TV show.

2. Nobody has offered to act as its agent.

3. There has been no suggestion that, in addition to its flag raising, it be allowed to fire a gun and light up a scoreboard.

Barnabel is interesting for various reasons. First of all experiment shows that rats and mice are doing better in school than children. If you have a mouse that is stupid this thought is pretty depressing. Our education expert, P. Stewksbury Grommett, reports that he has been operating a school for mice and is yet to find one who is all mixed up, maladjusted and lost unless he gets fast psychiatric treatment. 'I have not found a single mouse that went in for hoodlumism, and blamed it all on living in a poor neighborhood," he declared.

THE SUAWK CHUTE. Hi—Every time I shovel out my driveway along comes a city plow to block it all up again. I wouldn't mind if it did it only once. But the third plow just came along and made the score 3 to 0. Is this fair? J. H. Answer: You're not licked until it's 5 to 0.

Gracie Allen announces she intends to quit show biz and become just a good housewife. Wanna bet? Gracie and her husband, George Burns, have been airwave entertainers for over a quarter of a century and few showfolks have been more amusing. Show biz is in their blood. The day they quit will be the day Jack Benny throws away his violin.

Judge Harold R. Medina, N. Y. jurist who won fame through able conduct of "red trial has retired so he can "enjoy my boat and forget court duties." We doubt the judge will get his wish. The more time you have to spend on a boat the more boresome and arduous it can seem. The big kick from boating comes when a man can take a crack at it at intervals. Give it full time and you are lost in a mountain of charts, bills, monkey wrenches, mops, gaskets, fouled cylinders, motor noises and expensive cruising plans.

Joe Frisco, famous comedian, who died the other day, was one of the greatest ad libbers show business ever knew. He was better with his own hair-trigger gags than with scripts. We remember when Lee Shubert tried to get him to come east for a musical offering $400 a week. Frisco replied, "That's not a salary; that's a low auto license plate."

HARRY TRUMAN is to deliver lectures at Yale. It would be nice if his piano repertoire included the Whiffenpoof song. Big question politically is whether Harry, a stout Democrat, would ever consent to stay at the Hotel Taft in New Haven.

CONGRESS DIDN'T come through with all the millions asked for America's part in Brussels World Fair, a main objection being that in a time when America faces big money problems it shouldn't go overboard for de luxe part in European exposition.

Jack Benny, Benny Goodman, and many others from show world will be in the act, and there will be American bands, jazz orchestras, movies, etc.

American fear seems to be that Russia will outdo it. But should "There's No Business Like Show Business" be a necessary companion piece to the "Star Spangled Banner"?

Is the clarinet an instrument that can save the free world?

Great as is Jack Benny, does any issue affecting the free world depend on a violinist?

Wouldn't a little more emphasis on George Washington, Abe Lincoln, Paul Revere, Dr. Jonas Salk and his polio cure, the Liberty Bell, the saga of the covered wagons, the Statue of Liberty, be a good idea?

And how about a non-stop recording of stirring passages from the Declaration of Independence, with or without musical numbers, male quarter, fiddlers or long forgotten Hollywood movies?

Lack of Brickbats

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Why Is There Absence of Criticism of Russia?

What a strange attitude of captious criticism and contradiction seems to be publicized these days toward the top personalities in the Western world. In Britain they pick on the queen or the prime minister. In America they pick on the president. He is not supposed to live a normal life — to take rest and recreation for health reasons or even to go on trips over the weekend to please his wife. If he holds up an unloaded shotgun so as to give the press photographers the pose they reqcest, he is lambasted as inexpert in the art of handling a gun. If he stays at home and doesn't make public appearances, he is suspected of being ill or incapable of discharging his office.

David Lawrence

Nobody used to criticize President Wilson for playing golf twice a week or President Franklin D. Roosevelt for his frequent trips to Hyde Park, many of which were not even mentioned in the press for "security" reasons during the war. Newsmen did not ask President Truman why he flew to Key West with guests aboard a government plane for a vacation in the sunshine of the Southland.

The simple rules of courtesy which have been observed with other presidents do not seem to be respected these days.

AS FOR BRITAIN, the press is under fire there by leading clergymen because of the emphasis on the trivial and the irrelevant. Prime Minister MacMillan, moreover, is urged to drop his foreign secretary, Selwyn Lloyd, because the latter displeases a few members of the Conservative political party. Mr. Eisenhower is urged to drop his secretary of Agriculture because of an analogous discontent inside the Republican party.

Curiously enough, there is an absence of criticism of the Soviet Union for doing certain things that are denounced when the United States does them. Thus, in the last few days announcement was made that the Soviets had made another big test with one of their H-bombs. None of the scientists either in Britain or this country, with their customary solicitude about "fall out," expressed their horror and indignation.

None urged that Moscow of its own accord stop these tests. Dr. Linus Pauling, of the California Institute of Technology and the other Americans who got up a long petition after the United States made nuclear tests have not come forth with a similar petition directed to the Communists to stop testing. Every now and then some members of Congress take America to task for continuing nuclear tests but they don't seem to be vocal when the Soviet Union makes its big tests.

THE CRITICS in America, to be sure, are not in any way interested in forwarding the Communist cause. Primarily they want to embarrass the administration here for partisan political reasons. In Britain, the Socialist Laborites are carrying on a vehement campaign to persudade public opinion that it must disapprove of the newly signed agreement which provides missile bases to be used in cooperation with the United States armed forces.

Throughout the world, the "cold war" presents a similar set of paradoxes. Thus, the Egypt-Syria merger has been promptly approved by Moscow after a typical "election" of the Communist variety in which 99 per cent of the people vote one way — in approval.

This is a spectacular example of Communist methods when applied to the machinery of so-called "free elections." It's an indication of what the West will encounter if it agrees to elections in Indochina or Korea that are not supervised by really disinterested watchers.

There is a tendency in the Western press to regard the Egypt-Syria merger as a legitimate one, instead of a carefully contrived plan by the Communists to dominate the Middle East.

The Communists, moreover, are busy in every trouble area — in Cuba, Argentina, Guatemala, Indonesia and, of course, in Algeria and Tunisia.

THE WESTERN powers do not eem as yet to have learned how to come to grips with the Communist techniques in the "cold war."

The news reports generally give the impression that the uprisings and revolts are the normal reaction of people affected by grievances of an internal nature. But actually the Communist agents have managed to infiltrate everywhere to give added momentum to every local disturbance.

Very little is noted in the Western press, on the other hand, about helping the peoples of Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Bulgaria and East Germany so that they may rid themselves of the tyranniral yoke of their oppressors.

Some of the so-called "liberal" critics here and abroad keep on saying that "liberation" for Eastern Europe is too dangerous to mention and that the "status quo" —things to remain as they are— should be accepted by the West.

It's strange how considerate is the comment when Communist areas and interests might be impaired.

Optimistic Forecast

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

With economic levels in the United States still receding, a forecast of great business expansion sounds a welcome tune, even though it deals with the long and not the short range prospect.

Such a prophecy as been made by the Committee for Economic Development, one of the ablest and most thoughtful economic research groups in the nation. Some 150 business executives and scholars help to frame CED's recommendations.

The CED predicts that by 1975 the average income of U.S. families after taxes will come to at least $7,100, as against $5,300 today. The total gross national product, sum of all our goods and services, should rsie to 725 billion dollars a year from the present level of in excess of 415 billion.

What this means is that in the next 17 years American famies on the average will add to their disposable income an amount exceeding what they spend today on two basic items — food and clothing.

True to its thoughtful form, however, the CED points out in its recent study of the economy that the looked - for expansion is not an automatic thing, not an advantage we can have without lifting a finger.

Says the CED: "Only if we manage our economic affairs with intelligence can we expect such a 'good life' on the material side, shared among the entire population."

Millions of daily private decisions are the key, it adds. As all of us stand to benefit from so great an enlargement of the economy, so all of us are required to contribute. It matters not whether our share is large or small. What does count is that we make wise and energetic effort.

What do we need to foster the immense growth foreseen by these specialists? In their view:

A higher level of business management, continuous investment to provide the financial underpinning of expanding enterprise, individual savings to support that investment, more education and development of skills to fit the nation's manpower for the greater tasks ahead, better people in government, and fuller public understanding of government activities.

A large order, obviously. But the men in CED, like many in America, have confidence that the people of this country, by their combined wisdom and effort, can fill it and make this bright vision of 1975 come true.

Ike

HEALTH—Told a weekly news magazine (Time) says in its latest issue that Eisenhower has been forced to reduce his work load by up to 25 per cent as a consequence of his three major illnesses, Eisenhower smiled and said he wishes he could cut it by that much. But he added he doesn't think it has been reduced to that extent.

MACK—Eisenhower was asked whether he thinks Federal Communications Commissioner Richard A. Mack should resign or be fired. He said he had no judgment on the matter at this time.

Eisenhower said an FCC commissioner can be removed only for cause, and he presumed any such action would come after a kind of trial.

In connection with the same congressional inquiry, Eisenhower was asked whether his chief aide, Sherman Adams, acted improperly in writing a pair of letters dealing with matters before the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Eisenhower said it was the first he had heard of that. Then he said there are a number of things dealing with the CAB which require White House action, such as the establishment of overseas air routes.

Eisenhower said he assumes the Adams letters dealt with something of that nature.

Heavy Winter Storms Hit Western Europe

LONDON (AP) — Blizzards, gales and piled snow drifts put much of western Europe into the deep freeze today and brought chaos to road and rail transportation.

Conditions in most of Britain were the worst in 10 years.

An estimated 35,000 miles of British roads were unpassable. Hundreds of automobiles were abandoned in snowdrifts and many villages were cut off.

Navy Secures New Rocket Fuel Supply

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Navy has remedied a propellant shortage that helped delay a test launching of the Vanguard satellite rocket.

Other difficulties—minor electrical troubles and balky valves and other "plumbing" that also served to prevent a launching planned for early this week—have not yet been eliminated.

The Navy still hopes to launch the Vanguard before the weekend, and thus leave the way clear for the Army to attempt to send a second Explorer satellite—in the nose of a Jupiter C rocket—into an orbit next week.

The propellant in short supply—one of the seven propellants used in the three-stage Vanguard—was propane.

The gas is used for the auxiliary jets that control the second stage of the Vanguard when it is coasting, at a speed of 9,000 miles an hour, after its engine burns out 140 miles above the earth.

A new supply was trucked in. How the shortage developed was not made clear.

Foreign Aid

and economic aid is equally urgent. . .

"What the ostrich-like opponents of mutual security seem to be saying is 'billions for armament, but not one cent for peace!'"

Eisenhower declared the U.S. foreign aid program already has proved its worth — to such an extent, he said, that, the Soviet Union is trying to copy it.

"Muual aid. . . has thwarted the Communist hope of encircling and isolating us by taking over vulnerable smaller countries, through aggression or subversion," he added.

As examples, he cited Greece, Iran and Viet Nam.

The Communists, he said, seek to subvert underdeveloped countries through economic aid whereas the United States tries to help them "stand on their own feet."

AIRPLANE THAT ACTS LIKE A HELICOPTER. This drawing, released Feb. 22, by the Doak Aircraft Co., of Torrance, Calif., shows how a new aircraft built by Doak for the U.S. Army can take off land vertically like a helicopter, but operates in the air like a conventional airplane. Swivel-mounted propellers point down on takeoff or landing, then rotate to the conventional airplane position for straight-ahead flying. The plane remains horizontal all the time. It has a longer range and higher speed than a copter and can land as a conventional airplane does if desired. Ground tests will begin this week.

It's Roundup Time in Chicago As Cows Break Out of Truck

CHICAGO (AP)—It was roundup time in Chicago for a couple of hours Tuesday, from the near West Side to the Loop, as six cowboys and scores of policemen chased eight runaway cows.

The cows, headed for the stockyards from Sycamore, Ill., broke loose from a truck which fell apart near the busy Congress Street Expressway. Orin Hall, of Serena, Ill., the truck driver, called police.

Squad cars, motorcycle policemen and patrolmen moved in to the heavily populated district to help corral the cattle. The cowboys, on horseback, came galloping from the stockyards.

The cows, bewildered by the city sights, took off in all directions after they walked from the disabled truck. One got as far as the downtown district, at State and Congress streets. Startled shoppers broke out with "Yipee" cheers as they watched the chase.

Traffic slowed on the expressway and in other streets where the cows roamed. One ran head-on into a car. Another suffered two broken legs when it rammed a policeman's motorcycle. One tired old bossy rested on the sidewalk in front of a tavern.

After two hours of chasing the frightened animals, the city range riders captured seven. The other stray was shot and killed by a policeman. He said he fired in self-defense when the cow charged him.

The other seven aren't long for this world, either. They were taken to the stock yards for slaughter.

Many Cubans Say Batista Powerless Against Rebels

HAVANA (AP)—The bold kidnaping of world champion auto racer Juan Manuel Fangio has convinced many Cubans that President Fulgencio Batista is virtually powerless to check the hit-and-run attacks of Fidel Castro's rebels.

The rebels snatched the Argentine racer Sunday night, on the eve of the Gran Premio race, and held him 29 hours despite feverish police efforts. They hoped to force cancellation of the race as a demonstration of their power. The race was held—7 persons died and 30 others were injured when one car skidded off the course—but the kidnaping still gave Batista a black eye at home and abroad.

Fangio's abductors were still at large today, and the government was determined not to let Castro embarrass it in connection with the next big sports event. Police threw a guard around world lightweight champion Joe Brown of New Orleans to avert any attempt to sabotage his bout tonight with Cuban champ Orlando Echevarria.

The non-title fight has been widely publicized because it is being televised to the United States and also is opening a new two-million-dollar sports arena.

The rebels boast that Fangio's abduction proved Havana under Batista is not a safe place for tourists or foreign businessmen. They feel that by enough such acts, plus sabotage and killing of government sympathizers, they can force the government out.

Most Women Dislike the Sack

They'll Wear It, However, To Be Stylish

More than two out of three American women say they dislike the new sack — or chemise — fashions. But almost half of them say they'll probably wear them, anyway.

This, despite the fact that only one husband in seven has expressed himself as pleased with fashion's most recent rearrangement of the female form divine.

The Associated Press made a sack survey of women from San Francisco to New York, from Maine to California. Housewives, spinsters, society leaders, professional women, career girls, working girls and teen-agers were among those polled.

The survey may not have proved much about the fate of the chemise silhouette, but it does seem to reinforce the average male's conviction that dames are inconsistent, would wear a burlap bag if fashion so dictated and that — whatever they do dress for — it isn't the men in their lives.

STATISTICS TURNED UP are impressive but, no matter how closely studied, they just don't make much sense. For instance:

What Women Think

To the direct question, "What do you think of the sack silhouette?" 26 per cent of the women vowed they liked it, they loved it, it was fun! Another 54 per cent remarked with varying degrees of violence that they disliked it, they loathed it, they wouldn't be caught dead in it. Twenty per cent made cautious, qualified answers—maybe for slender, hipless, young ones, but not for me. One woman, a factory worker in Illinois, said, "I never heard of it."

The next question was "Do you plan to wear it?" Thirty - eight per cent (and some of them were those who said they disliked it announced they already were or would. Fifty five per cent (and some of them were women who said they liked it) announced they would not, ever, wear it. A mere 7 per cent were undecided.

SEVENTY - TWO PER CENT of the survey group were married women. Fourteen per cent of them reported their husbands liked the chemise.

Eighty per cent, however, merrily reported husbandly reactions ranging from "What have you got on — a laundry bag?" (Greer Garson, actress) to "He would completely ignore me — and I'm serious (Mrs. Robert McCann, Bismarck, N.D. housewife.)

Overwhelmingly (75 per cent), the women expressed a permanent preference for simple, classic clothes. And well over half insisted that the revolutionary new silhouette will be no more than a passing fancy except for women who go in for high style.

Singer Patti Page, for instance, says she likes the new dresses very much — but not for television, where the chemise is ignored as studiously as off-color jokes.

"Television clothes," she said, "are different from street wear. A chemise might look good, in person. But the camera wouldn't help the dress at all."

DEFENDERS OF THE SACK, generally, seemed to cluster in the larger cities, to be high-style conscious — and slender. St. Louis housewife Mrs. Pat Saxon gave a typical answer: "I like it. And I plan to wear sack dresses because they are a high fashion item. Actually they aren't sacky when they fit correctly."

Fashion - plate Ina Claire, former stage star and now Mrs. William Wallace, San Francisco social leader, insists that a well-made chemise, like her favorite Balenciaga, is subtle and delicately curved "so you can see there is a human body in it."

Sack-haters, however, were more colorful in their attack. A woman physician in Atlanta, Ga., Dr. Irene Phrydas, remarked that she thinks its "terrific for women in an early stage of pregnancy: this season is a wonderful time to be expecting — no one would ever know with the sack look."

St. Louis receptionist Catherine Noerteman just thinks "it stinks," and New York writer Janice Devine sees in it "a conspiracy by designers to make women look silly." Mrs. June Laird of Topeka, Kan., finds sack dresses "utterly ridiculous," and Mrs. J. Glynn Frost of Gardiner, Me., just said, "No swear words allowed — I think it's awful."

STAGE AND TV STAR Mary Martin is a veteran of the sack: she wore one in a comedy routine six years ago in her television debut.

"They laughed at me when I wore a sack in 1952," she said. "And I don't blame them. It was funny then and it's funny now."

Miss Martin, however, is broad-minded about the new silhouette. "These are tense days and its good, for a change, for men to have a good laugh. Why shouldn't we women give it to them?"

Although Miss Martin insists that her husband finds the sack funny, it is apparent that large numbers of husbands do not.

"He wouldn't take me out if I wore such a thing," says Mrs. James Snow of Topeka — and her husband's sentiments were widely echoed by married males all over the country.

"He'd be absolutely right in burning every one of the fool things I brought home," said San Francisco's Mrs. Frances E. Johnson, secretary.

Many style-conscious women, like Greer Garson, however, urged patience in judging the new vogue.

"In the past fashions of the newest high style always looked a little comic at first," said Broadway's current Auntie Mame. "But women have managed so far to look charming in every day and every age, and I am sure they will not be defeated by the sack."

Guarding Your Health

By Dr. EDWIN P. JORDAN

Heart Patient Often Can Work

One of the most important problems related to heart disease is the question of work and employment for those who are afflicted with some kind of heart trouble.

The highest hurdle for the heart patient to overcome is fear. In most cases this fear is not justified by the facts since a high proportion of patients with heart disease can and should be actively employed in some occupation outside or inside the home.

IT HAS BEEN SHOWN beyond question that when work is suitably adjusted to the ability of the heart useful occupation is all to the good.

How can one tell what work is suitable for the person with a heart ailment?

There are ample measures available today for the doctor to test the patient and find out exactly the amount of work that can be safely done. Sometimes work restrictions are not necessary at all, but in many cases the heart patient can perform useful functions in industry with only slight restriction on activity.

ONCE THIS HAS been determined by the physician in charge, the next problem is to find an occupation which fits the health needs of the individual.

In this task the America nHeart Association, the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults and numerous other organizations may be of great help.

What about the employer's view on the employment of those who have some heart trouble?

This has undergone a remarkable change in recent years. Formerly, many employers were afraid to allow any victim of heart disease to work for them because they felt something bad might happen.

NOW, MOST employers realize that when the job is adjusted to the person they can safely hire many of those who have some form of heart disease. Actually many of them become especially valued employes.

One study of the work done by a group of persons with heart disease in comparison with a similar group of those who did not, showed very little difference in work done. In fact, the difference was in favor of the group with heart trouble!

This does not mean, of course, that all victims of heart disease can work. But it does mean that the mere presence of heart disease does not imply the end of a useful work life.

Again, however, I shall have to point out that heart disease cannot be considered as a single problem. So far as most occupations are concerned, the amount of reserve in the heart is likely to be more important than the particular label put on the heart ailment.

High School Students Hold 2 Rocket Tests

Two rocket launchings have been made by Fred Ashead, Chuck Erath and Lynn Bates, Salem High School students, in the past two weeks.

The first was Chuck's two-foot rocket, which weighed about two pounds. However, the nose section was found not long enough to withstand the power of the burning gasses inside.

It tore loose the six screws that were holding it and shot to considerable height into the air while the rocket recoiled into the ground.

The source of the trouble was found and corrected in the successful four-foot rocket which was fired to an altitude of 400 feet last weekend.

Only the bottom engine was fired in a test to make sure that the engine section was working properly before the instrument section was installed.

The four-foot rocket was made of a steel tube two inches in diameter. The rocket section itself weighed eight and three - fourths pounds, while the fuel weighed two and three fourths pounds, making a total of 11½ pounds.

The two and three - fourths pounds of fuel is only about one-fourth of the actual fuel capacity of the rocket. Since the test was so successful the boys plan to finish assembling the entire rocket and fire it as soon as possible. Filled with fuel, the rocket is expected to reach a much greater height than was attained in the recent test.

The boys need a sponsor to further this scientific project to help pay for the fuel and to help build a new launching tower.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

I have a bargain for you in Cadillacs. One Cadillac, anyway. Ask-price is about $400 and you should know that it's of 1928 vintage.

Victor Riesel

However, you might be able to do right well on a quick resale in Chicago soon, for this is the old Capone steel-covered wagon — with oversized motor, police siren and a rear window which old car-face put on hinges for easier machine - gunning of uninvited guests.

Symbolically, this solid guilt Cadillac was taken out of mothballs in Manchester, Eng., the other day just about the time Sen. McClellan's investigators were disinterring the old Capone era with quiet spade work into the Chicago Motion Picture Operators' local.

The reports are now back in Washington and when they are released in public hearings, they will make a loud noise inside labor.

This capter in the serial now being run by the committee will be the first major link between some parts of the labor movement and the days of Little Caesar, an era so forgotten that some think you're talking of Italian politics when you mention the old boy's nickname.

THE INTEREST of Senate committee Counselor Robert Kennedy has been in Chicago's Local 110, the motion picture machine operators of the International Association of Theatrical State Employes. When I say that this local has a bloody history, I'm not being trite; I'm going in for disciplined understatement.

Back in the early '30s, somewhat noted for bad times, the local was reported to have been "a $750,000-a-year racket" run by the Capone syndicate. At least one man was shot in its headquarters, according to testimony before the Kefauver committe. The gunner, according to the testimony, was one Ralph O'Hara. He got off on a directed verdict.

Soon after that, a pompous fellow named Tom Malloy, who traveled the globe with a retinue, became president. He departed the world because of an overdose of lead, professionally applied. Shortly following, O'Hara became president.

Then George Browne of the Bioff partnership moved in. Browne turned the operation over to a John Smith (sic and double sic) Brother Smith later testified, among other things, in a New York Federal Court that he earned $500 a week and turned half of it over to the Capone mob.

By this time the national office of the Stage Hands in New York was in the hands of reform elements under Dick Walsh. Walsh took over the Chicago local and placed Felix Snow in charge.

Snow opened the books to a number of what is called "permit" men. These are holders of union cards permitting them to work and pay dues but not to vote or hold actual membership in the local.

WHEN WALSH thought the best that could be done had been done, he ordered an election. He literally moved voting machines across from New York to Chicago.

The poll was won by Eugene Atkinson, now business agent of the all-powerful local, without whose membership no Chicago movie house can operate. Atkinson and Walsh have been and are political enemies. But Atkinson won, and that was that.

He has since run the local without opposition, though he has not been well recently. Much of his time is spent at his Florida home, the Senate committee people learned.

What else they found, of course, only they and their chief knows. Since union records and officials have been subpenaed for appearance, reportedly within 60 days, the story will be told then.

At this moment the significance of this report is in the fact that the McClellan committee appears to have just begun rolling.

The two committe investigators who set up headquarters in Chicago's federal building months ago have also gone into locals of the Hotel and Restaurant Workers, the Teamsters, Building Trades and the Operating Engineers. Add this to the roster in other cities which include the Carpenters, the Meatcutters and the Hod-Carriers, and you find the probe cutting right across the former AFL.

THIS HAS SHAKEN a strong section of the AFL-CIO's high command. They don't know where the probes will hit next — and with some it isn't just a case of vulnerability but of past sociability with some of "the boys."

In recent weeks there has been strong pressure on AFL-CIO chief George Meany to declare open war on the Senate committee. There was some especially strong talk at the recent AFL-CIO executive council session in Miami Beach. No labor leader wants to joust with the CcClellan committee openly unless Meany does — and he shows no such inclination yet.

However, since the next series of hearings will run the gamut from the Auto Workers to the unions mentioned above, the real showdown inside labor's high command will come at the April 29 executive council session in Washington.

The house of labor certainly is a split-level home these days.

The Hall Syndicate

BACK TO NORMAL IN MIAMI — The sun shines warmly in south Florida, drawing large crowds to the shore in Miami Beach. The rising mercury was a welcome change from the disastrous freezes of the past few weeks.

LAST OF CONQUERORS — Eighty-five-year-old Olav Bjaaland, the last man alive of the five Norwegians who first reached the South Pole nearly a half century ago, relaxes with a cigarette at his home in Morgedal, Norway. With Roald Amundsen and three others, Bjaaland reached the frozen bottom of the world on Dec. 14, 1911. Very much alert, despite his advanced age, he follows current Antartic explorations with keen interest.

Salem To Face Youngstown East In Tourney Tilt Thursday

Opponents Hold 11-8 Record

First Meeting Of Schools Since 1946

By GORDON ARNDT

The Salem High Quakers ranked fifth in the final Associated Press poll Tuesday will be seeking a berth in one of the finals brackets of the Youngstown Class A sectional Tournament Thursday when they battle the Youngstown East Golden Bears at 9 p.m.

East slipped into a semi-final position by rolling over Youngstown North 60-31 last Friday evening while the Red and Black earned a similar niche by blasting Girard 68-37.

THE ENCOUNTER BETWEEN the two schools will be the first one since 1946 when the Quakers defeated the Golden Bears 46-42 in their first tournament game.

The teams have played but six games since 1932 with the series being tied 3-3. The slate includes four tourney tilts and two regular season frays. The Quakers dropped two regular season frays to East but topped them the out of four times in tourney action.

The Youngstown school currently supports a 11-8 record in contrast to Salem's 18-0.

THE BEARS ARE PACED by a pair of scoring twins in Ron Lane and Jim Snowden. Lane, 5-9, is averaging 18.5 points per game while Snowden, 6-3, has a 14-point average. Snowden scored 25 against North last week.

Other starters for the Youngstowners will be Billy Jones, 6-1, Bob Calcagni, 6-1 and Ron Guerrieri, 6-2.

The clubs played four common foes this season. East beat Struthers but lost to Youngstown Rayen, Youngstown South and East Liverpool. The Golden Bears, however, scored one win over Rayen in their two games but were beaten by South twice 43-41 and 60-49.

SALEM BEAT RAYEN 86-58; South, 53-47; Struthers, 53-35; and East Liverpool.

East is coached by Ed DiGregario, now in his second year after five campaigns at North Lima.

In the first game tomorrow evening Youngstown South a 52-48 winner over Warren Harding, and Austintown Fitch a 73-44 winner over Niles will battle to see who plays the winner of the East-Salem game.

They'll jump for the first time at 7:30 p.m.

Bluffton Gives 91-89 Defeat To Findlay

By The Associated Press

Wilmington practically clinched the Mid-Ohio League basketball championship Tuesday night without bouncing a ball, thanks to a fired-up Bluffton team

The Bluffs, 5-6 in the loop, came from behind to force Findlay into an overtime and then took a 91-89 decision. Findlay had its sights set on at least a share of the Mid-Ohio title.

Bluffton, paced by Abie Mast's 35 points and Ron Kalb's 30 came from behind and held an 82-80 margin with only a second or two left. Findlay stayed in the ball game for another five minutes on a desperation shot from center court by Connie Walcutt.

In the overtime, however, the Oilers never were able to get into the lead.

The losers also had a player hitting the 35-point mark, George Keller.

Findlay still has a slim chance for sharing the crown. The league would wind up in a tie if Cedarville, in last place, defeats Wilmington Thursday at Cedarville.

Cedarville was dropped in the Mid-Ohio cellar when they absorbed a 83-73 defeat at Ashland. The two teams had identical 2-8 league records going into the game.

In two Ohio Conference games, Mount Union (8-4 and 12-5) rolled past Oberlin (6-5) and (11-6), 60-49, and Denison came from behind in the last half to edge Capital 62 60 at Granville. Denison is 8-7 in the conference; Capital is 9-7.

Bowling Green brought home a victory in an out-of-state battle with Loyola of Chicago, 65-63. The Ramblers' loss, their eighth in 22 games, shattered hopes for a post-season tournament bid.

Bowling Green has a 14-8 mark.

Burning Question For Indians Is: 'Who's to Play at Second?'

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Spring training is under way and still the burning question for the Cleveland Indians is: "Who's on second?"

General manager Frank Lane so far has been frustrated in his efforts to get a second baseman from the New York Yankees or the Detroit Tigers. His success in this direction is expected to have an important bearing on the Tribe's hopes of getting back into the first division this year.

Lane, who tried to get Frank Bolling from Detroit, announced Tuesday he had acquired Bolling's brother Milt, also a second baseman, from the Washington Senators. Lane remarked that rookie pitcher Pete Mesa, who went to Washington in the trade, "didn't figure in our plans, and Bolling may be useful as a utility infielder."

Bobby Avila has slowed down since joining the Indians in 1949. He was the regular second baseman last year except for a brief tryout at third. Two other contenders for the job are Fred Hatfield and Larry Raines.

Raines, who played in the Cuban Winter League where Indians field manager Bobby Bragan was managing, failed to convince Bragan he can play second. Hatfield, obtained from the Chicago White Sox in the trade that brought Minnie Minoso to Cleveland, is a good infielder but lacks batting power. His highest major league RBI total was 35 in 1956.

How strongly Lane feels about the second base problem is shown by his use of ace relief pitcher Ray Narleski as trading bait. He worked out a tentative deal at one time which would have sent Narleski to the New Hork Yankees and brought second baseman Bobby Richardson to the Indians.

Word of the proposed deal — which fell through—brought howls of rage from many Indian fans.

Lane is still trying.

Lane announced the Bolling acquisition in a telephone call from Orlando, Fla., the Senators' spring training headquarters. Bolling, 27, went to Washington in a trade with the Boston Red Sox last April and batted .227 in 92 games for the Senators.

Mesa, a 28-year-old righthander, had a 10-11 record at San Diego last year.

11 Bulldogs Score In Lopsided Game

Poland's Bulldogs put 11 men in the scoring column Tuesday night as they rolled in the second half to defeat Beaver Local 72-36 in a Class AA sectional cage game at Struthers.

Brookviele beat Campbell Memorial 66-63 in one other encounter.

Beaver pulled to within 15-14 early in the second quarter and trailed by 13 at 30-17 at the half. The Bulldogs began moving strongly in the third period to outscore Beaver 23-8 and take a commanding 53-25 margin going into the final frame.

Doug Hill again led the winners with 20 tallies while Lyons had 14 and Wolf 13.

Beaver had no one in the double figures but Jay Grubb hauled down honors for the losers with nine points.

Steubenville To Take On St. Vincent

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (AP)—The College of Steubenville Barons, boasting a 22 - game basketball winning streak, close their season tonight hoping to get a trip to the National Invitational Tournament at Madison Square Garden next month.

The Barons, 23-1, meet St. Vincent's College, a team they beat earlier this season, at Latrobe, Pa.

"I feel it would be a shame if these kids didn't get to play in a post-season tourney," said Henry (Hank) Kuzma, the Barons' 30-year-old coach, who played in the NIT when he was at Duquesne.

Steubenville withdrew last week from the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics' district competition at Youngstown because it felt that a NIT bid might be forthcoming.

Father Joseph Sullivan, dean of the college (enrollment 850), has talked with NIT officials, who have been checking the school's athletic and academic standards.

Steubenville's only defeat this season, the most successful in the history of the college came in the second game—a 67-66 loss to Mt. St. Mary's in an overtime contest at Emmittsburg, Md. The Barons later beat the Maryland quintet, 71-68, here.

During the four years Kuzma has been coaching the Barons, they have won 94 games and lost only 19. In the five previous seasons, they had won 33 and lost 60.

The young coach has recruited most of his players from western Pennsylvania, which borders this eastern Ohio city of 31000. Only two members of the squad are from Ohio.

Virginia Beats Duke Five 70-68

Holy Cross Upsets Connecticut 92-89

By The Associated Press

Kansas State and San Francisco were sitting pretty in NCAA major college tournament seats today while Southern Methodist has upset the dope by gaining the inside track in a bid for a fourth consecutive Southwest Conference basketball crown.

On top of all that, Virginia made the already confused Atlantic Coast Conference battle even tougher to figure by upsetting Duke, which had won 11 straight, 70-68 in triple overtime Thursday night.

Kansas State gained its fourth Big Eight title and NCAA berth by whipping Oklahoma 68-51. The Wildcats, ranked No. 1 in the Associated Press poll, now have won 10 in a row for a 19-1 record.

San Francisco, No. 4, didn't have it so easy while building a 22-1 record with a 49-47 decision over St. Mary's (Calif.) that clinched the West Coast Athletic Conference championship and handed the Dons a ticket to their fourth consecutive NCAA shindig.

St. Bonaventure and St. John's (N.Y.), both headed to the National Invitation Tournament, padded their records, while Holy Cross, passed over thus far by selection committees upset NCAA bound Connecticut 92-89 in double over time. New Orleans Loyola, named to the NCAA field Tuesday, whipped Memphis State 68-55.

SMU, crossed off as a Southwest power with the graduuation of big Jim Drebs, took the undisputed lead with an expected 89-73 victory over Texas while Texas A&M was upsetting Texas Tech 79-63. SMU, now 8-4, hit 22 of 39 field goal attempts while building a 50-40 lead at the half. Rick Herrscher led the Mustangs with 28 points.

Kansas State, NCAA runner-up in 1951, managed only a 30-28 lead against Oklahoma's man-to-man defense at the half. But the Wildcats hustled 16 points ahead early in the second half as Roy DeWitz supplemented his usual fine defensing with three quick field goals. Bob Boozer and Jack Parr again supplied K-State's scoring punch, however, with Boozer counting 23.

A disputed field goal helped San Francisco, which finished third in the NCAA championships last year after taking the title in 1955-56. St. Mary's led 26-23 at the half and was still in business until Gene Brown's field goal sent the Dons ahead to stay late in the game. Home fans stormed the floor and halted play while arguing with officials that Brown had stepped out of bounds before getting off the shot. It was all for nothing.

Cuban Police Guard Champ Joe Brown

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Lightweight champion Joe Brown, an old pro and a navy veteran of seven Pacific invasions, wasn't too perturbed today as large forces of police guarded the spanking new two-million-dollar Sports Palace where he fights Cuba's Orlando Echevarria tonight.

Brown, Echevarria and other fighters on the inaugural program for the 18,000-seat arena, also were protected by special police details. The redfaced cops vowed there would be no repetition of the Fangio incident. Juan Manuel Fangio, Argentina's famed auto racing champion, was kidnaped by Fidel Castro's rebels on the eve of the Gran Premio race. Fangio was released unharmed Tuesday.

"I haven't received any threats and I don't expect any," said the 32-year - old champion from New Orleans.

Brown, unbeaten in his last 15 fights, was a 5-1 choice to beat the Cuban lightweight ruler in a nontitle 10-rounder.

Jimmy Bryan to Drive 'Belond 500 Special'

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Jimmy Bryan of Phoenix, Ariz., was nominated today as this year's driver of the Belond 500 Special in which Sam Hanks won the 50-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway last year.

Hanks has retired from active competition. The car, owned by George Salih of Whittier, Calif., has been raced only once— in the run here last May 30.

Bryan placed third last year, won the 500-mile race at Monza, Italy, and took the USAC national championship for the second straight year.

Houston—Paul Jorgensen, 130, Houston, outpointed Gil Cadilli, 126, San Francisco, 10.

Middleweight Champ Changes Training Plans

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Warm weather and a yearning for home has caused middleweight champion Carmen Basilio to change his training plans for his March 25 meeting with Sugar Ray Robinson in Chicago.

Basilio's co-managers Joe Netro and John DeJohn said Tuesday they were afraid the champion would lose too much weight in the warm weather.

"Carmen also has been homesick; he misses his wife (Kay) and his nephews," they added.

Basilio is well ahead of his training schedule, the managers said.

Richmond, Calif.—Vic Cardot, 140, Oakland, stopped Marvin Marcus. 140, Fresno, 7.

Antonelli Expects To Return to Form

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Johnny Antonelli, whose best pitching records were made in even-numbered years, expects to return to form in a big way this season for San Francisco.

The 27-year-old southpaw had a dazzling 2.29 earned run average in 1954, his first year with the club. He led the Giants to a World Series sweep of the Cleveland Indians and finished with a 21-7 mark, tops in the National League.

He dropped to 14-6 in 1955, 20-13 in 1956 and had his poorest season last year, 12-18.

"I'm ready to hit it good again," he says. "I don't want to sound like I'm making excuses or alibing but I had lousy luck last season."

Antonelli reported to spring training last season after a long siege of flu and was training hard before he fully recovered.

"Then I hurt my shoulder in one of the first practice games," he said.

After he returned to form,, he slipped and fell down the stairs at his home.

"It wasn't until the last month of the season that the pains went away," he said.

Anonelli will become a 10-year man in a few months. Manager Bill Rigney expects him again to be the ace of the Giants' staff. John thinks the move to the Pacific Coast will help the club's morale.

Salem Frosh Overwhelm Lisbon 65-43

Sam Pridon's Salem High freshman basketball squad closed out its 1957-58 schedule in convincing fashion Tuesday afternoon overquintet 65-43 on the Salem court.

In playing their best ball of the campaign by far, the young Quakers put 10 men in the scoring column as they brought their final record to 7-10.

High scoring Fred Harshman again led Salem's point parade as his one - hand efforts found the range for 19 points. Dave Schuster, scoring mostly off effective fast break tactics, was behind Harshman with 11 counters.

Fay led Lisbon with 11.

Salem jumped to a 13-8 first quarter lead and stretched it to 31-18 at the intermission.

They kept up their onslaught to go away in front 49-23 after three periods.

Pridon emptied his bench midway in the fourth frame and the subs held their own as a total of 10 men put their name in the scoring column.

Yardley Leads Pistons to Win Over Hawks

Beating many of George Mikan's pro basketball records is no mean task. But the way Detroit's George Yardley is closing in on perhaps the big guy's greatest, it seems like a cinch.

After firing in 44 points in his latest effort, the baldheaded hotshot of the Pistons is within 124 points of Mikan's season National Basketball Assn. scoring record of 1,932 points set in 1950-51. And Yardley has six games in which to pick up those 125 points, needing an average of about 21 a game to do it.

For Yardley, averaging 27.4, it probably will be a breeze providing he keeps healthy.

The 6-8 master was in the pink Tuesday night at New York's Madison Square Garden with a scoring display that not only moved him a giant step toward the record but produced an exciting 114-113 comeback overtime victory over the St. Louis Hawks.

With 3 points already in his private bag, Yardley hit a 30-foot desperation hook shot at the buzzer that sent the game into the extra period. Then, his jump shot and driving, twisting layup were the key field goals in the overtime.

He got a standing ovation from the Garden crowd of 13120, left so limp by the spectacular finish that they hardly let out a peep as Philadelphia swamped New York 132-110 in the second game.

Detroit took a full game lead over idle Cincinnati in the battling for second place in the Western Division. St. Louis already has clinched the top spot.

The Warriors, with four players scoring at least 20 points, parlayed their easy victory into a four-game lead over New York in the scrambling for the third and last playoff spot in the Eastern Division. Jack George was the leader of a smooth Philadelphia attack, scoring 31 points.

Kansas State Cinches Big Eight Crown

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Kansas State cinched the Big Eight basketball crown Tuesday night three games earlier than most anyone expected.

The Wildcats are determined there will be no letdown as they head for the NCAA playoffs. They'll keep that No. 1 spot in The Associated Press basketball poll.

"All we have to do now is keep from beating ourselves," said Roy DeWitz, a ball-hawking 6-3 senior. "The season isn't over. We want to win our next three games to keep us on top in the national poll."

Kansas State wrapped up the Big Eight championship by beating Oklahoma 68-51 after a shaky start.

The prize came on Coach Tex Winter's 36th birthday.

HAMREICK TIES FOR THIRD

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Bob Hamrick of Fremont, Ohio, finished in a four-way tie for third in the qualifying round of the $15,000 Baton Rouge Open Tuesday. He carded a 72.

Annual Wildlife Conference To Open in St. Louis March 3

— Advertisement —

The 23rd annual North American Wildlife Conference, greatest clearing house for professional and semiprofessional conservationists on the continent, will be held at St. Louis March 3-5.

Fish and game technicians of the United States and Canada know about the scope of the exchange already, because the conference is the place where all of them at one time or another rave traded findings, refined policies and generally benefited from an exchange of ideas.

But the North American can be quite an illuminating experience, too, for the sportsman without professional connections in the field. As a matter of fact, the big forum moves from city to city with just that in mind. By the time it closes up shop, along with the National Wildlife Federation and other associated groups that meet at the same time, the outdoorsmen of the host community have had quite a course in conservation.

The St. Louis conference has three general sessions designed to give an over-all view of what's up outdoors. The first, on March 3, will deal with today's opportunities for conservation, with President Delyte W. Morris of Southern Illinois University as chairman.

Youth and natural resources is the discussion subject for the Tuesday meeting, under the chairmanship of Irving Feist, Newark, N.J., waterfowl expert.

On Wednesday, Arthur Carhart of Denver will stir up debate on the fight for conservation, its whys and wherefores.

Anyone may register for these sessions and they're free. There is no better chance to see the best in conservation ideas displayed by a coast of 1500.

Looking over the incomplete summary of the deer kill for 1957, I find that my observations were correct when I stated that there seemed to be an increase in the deer kill in Columbiana county. Incomplete card returns show 65 deer were taken in 1957 while the complete returns for the 1956 season account for only 41.

I ALSO MENTIONED that the turnpike running through Mahoning county was taking a terrific toll of deer and that the kill in Mahoning county would decrease.

Incomplete returns from this county show 42 deer taken in 1957 while the complete returns in 1956 accounted for 45. This means we evidently have an increase in deer in Columbiana county while the Mahoning traffic toll holds an even keel.

To day for sure that the deer population will increase or decrease in Mahoning county would be pure conjecture. Even so, the fact remains we do not have a turnpike in this county and it appears that Columbiana county will eventually become one of the leading deer producing areas in due time.

FROM THE STANDPOINT of the hunter this is a bright outlook On the other hand, if the deer herd continues to increase, we might be in for trouble by the possible damages done by these grazing ruminants. The complaints I have had so far has been that they polish their antlers on the sapling fruit trees or eat the suculunt buds that eventually kill young trees.

Some farmers don't want the deer fraternizing with their cattle. The more deer, the more rifle slug fly around and the more nervous the farmer gets. That is why it is so important that deer hunters make early contacts with the farmer and reach an understanding of cooperation during the hunting season.

THE ICE FISHERMEN at Westville Lake have been having lots of luck taking bluegills, perch and a few crappies by the dozens. They have managed to fish for hours in the near zero weather with their improvised shacks made from corrugated paper shipping boxes or discarded refrigerator boxes. Anything that forms a wind break has been fine while lanters or buckets of burning charcoal have provided the necessary heat.

At present writing, the 'shacks" out on the ice make the first lake look like the city dump. Of course, all this will be removed as soon as the ice begins to thaw and a bonfire is in order. For next year though, many of the fishermen already have their shacks in the blutprint stages. This ice fishing on the local lakes is something new in this vicinity.

THE WIFE YOU SAVE MAY BE YOUR OWN
Let us show her this fine three bedroom ranch style home. Everything is on one floor. She will like the fireplace in its large livingroom, also the good sized diningroom. The modern kitchen is just the right size for her to cook your families meals. The children can each have their own bedroom while you and she have your own. You or the children can entertain in the large basement recreation room. No worrying about her firing an old style furnace, or climbing steps and your tools will fit fine in its combination laundry room and workshop. You will have plenty of room around this home because it has a large nicely landscaped lawn, complete with blacktop drive to its good sized garage. You can be her hero by buying her this WIFE SAVER home.

EDUCATION CIRCLE — The children attending Vista Mar school in Daly City, Calif., should receive a well-rounded education, if the shape of their school means anything. Containing 13 classrooms and 2 kindergartens, it is of glass and concrete block construction. The area inside the school will be a landscaped play yard. The circular building, left, background, will have mostly glass walls and serve as a multipurpose room for school activities and will be connected to the main building by a covered breezeway.
